Why Virginia Seafood?

Virginia boasts some of the most biologically diverse waterways in the country, which makes the state one of the country’s top seafood producers. From the Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean, 11,000 Virginians work on the water to bring over 80 species of delicious fish to the global table every day.
Sustainability in Virginia

While Virginia’s waters host an abundant number of fish today, there are measures in place to ensure Virginia seafood remains on tomorrow’s menu. Marine scientists, fishery managers, and seafood producers provide scientific data that helps the Virginia Marine Resources Commission (VMRC) assess current fish stocks and set regulations to maintain the overall health of Virginia’s fisheries. The VMRC also works with regional and federal agencies to ensure that fish who might migrate through Virginia’s waters are a part of cooperative, well-managed fisheries and that seafood is sustainable and safe for consumption.

To find out more about sustainability in Virginia’s fisheries, visit VirginiaSeafood.org.
CRABS

- Blue Crab
  - Market Names: hard-shell crab, soft-shell crab
  - Sold whole, live, or steamed. Crabmeat is available fresh, frozen, and pasteurized.

- Red Crab
  - Sold live, whole, frozen, cooked, or raw, in frozen clusters, or as leg meat and body meat. Claw fingers are to snap and eat.

FINFISH

- Monkfish
  - Market Name: goosefish, American angler
  - Sold whole, or as fresh and frozen tail filets with or without skin.

- Black Sea Bass
  - Market Name: sea bass, blackfish, rock bass, tallow wag
  - Sold as filets or whole, can usually be found frozen year round.

- Bluefish
  - Market Names: tailor (often refers to smaller bluefish), snapper
  - Sold fresh as filets, whole, salted, dried, smoked, and as pâté.

- Summer Flounder
  - Market Names: fluke, northern fluke, plaice
  - Sold fresh or frozen, whole or as filets. Often available stuffed or breaded.
  - Catch method is a factor in determining sustainability.

- Spiny Dogfish
  - Market Names: cape shark, spurdog, piked dogfish, chip fish, chip shark
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Striped Bass
  - Market Names: rockfish, striper, bass, linesides
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Croaker
  - Usually sold whole, but larger fish are available that can be filleted.
  - Also known as the “talking fish,” croakers emit a croaking sound, both in the water and when caught.

SHELLFISH

- Eastern Oyster
  - Market Name: American oyster
  - Sold live in the shell at approximately 3” market size. Freshly shucked oysters can be large “counts” to the small “standards” and sold in pints, quarts, or gallons, or sold frozen.

- Red Crab
  - Sold live, whole frozen, cooked, or raw, in frozen clusters, or as leg meat and body meat. Claw fingers are to snap and eat.

- Northern Puffer
  - Market Name: sugar toad
  - Sold fresh or frozen as a filet, whole, or dressed.
  - The puffer picks up its sugar toad name because of the sweet taste of its meat and because its skin is covered with small spines that look like the fish has been sprinkled with sugar.

- Black Sea Bass
  - Market Names: northern quahog, hardshell clam, littleneck clams
  - Sold live in shell, fresh-shucked, canned, and frozen. Often added to other products like sauces and soups.

- Croaker
  - Usually sold whole, but larger fish are available that can be filleted.
  - Also known as the “talking fish,” croakers emit a croaking sound, both in the water and when caught.

- Summer Flounder
  - Market Names: fluke, northern fluke, plaice
  - Sold fresh or frozen, whole or as filets. Often available stuffed or breaded.
  - Catch method is a factor in determining sustainability.

- Bluefish
  - Market Names: tailor (often refers to smaller bluefish), snapper
  - Sold fresh as filets, whole, salted, dried, smoked, and as pâté.

- Spiny Dogfish
  - Market Names: cape shark, spurdog, piked dogfish, chip fish, chip shark
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Striped Bass
  - Market Names: rockfish, striper, bass, linesides
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Croaker
  - Usually sold whole, but larger fish are available that can be filleted.
  - Also known as the “talking fish,” croakers emit a croaking sound, both in the water and when caught.

- Summer Flounder
  - Market Names: fluke, northern fluke, plaice
  - Sold fresh or frozen, whole or as filets. Often available stuffed or breaded.
  - Catch method is a factor in determining sustainability.

- Bluefish
  - Market Names: tailor (often refers to smaller bluefish), snapper
  - Sold fresh as filets, whole, salted, dried, smoked, and as pâté.

- Spiny Dogfish
  - Market Names: cape shark, spurdog, piked dogfish, chip fish, chip shark
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Striped Bass
  - Market Names: rockfish, striper, bass, linesides
  - Sold as filets or whole, fresh and frozen.

- Croaker
  - Usually sold whole, but larger fish are available that can be filleted.
  - Also known as the “talking fish,” croakers emit a croaking sound, both in the water and when caught.

Virginia Seafood Guide

This guide is designed to help you identify seasonal and sustainable seafood caught or raised in Virginia’s waters, whether you’re cooking at home or ordering from a restaurant menu.

Buying seafood locally means putting fresh-caught seafood back on your plate while supporting the regional economy. Try Virginia sustainable seafood and taste what’s good.

VirginiaSeafood.org